McCullar Addresses Conference Tuesday

Guidance leaders from high schools throughout the state will be arriving at Winthrop Tuesday for the annual Guidance Conference.

The conference is sponsored jointly by the South Carolina College for Women and the guidance services division of the State Department of Education.

Registration is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Tuesday with the opening session getting underway at 10:15 a.m. Speaking at the first meeting will be Dr. Charles G. Morehead of Raleigh, N. C., president of the National Association of Guidance Supervisors and a Counselor Trainer, and Miss Ellen Lyles of Columbia, state supervisor of guidance services.

The day's major address will be at 11:30 a.m. during the regular assembly period by Mrs. Bernice Brown McCullar of Atlanta, Ga., a member of the Georgia State Department of Education. Mrs. McCullar, who holds degrees from Georgia State College for Women and Mercer University, will speak at a joint session of guidance leaders and the Winthrop student body. She formerly practiced law with her husband, the late Judge C. B. McCullar, and has been admitted to the Georgia Bar.

Scheduled during the afternoon are group discussions to be conducted by Dr. Morehead, Miss Ella Stephens Barrett of Raleigh, N. C., guidance supervisor, H. C. Department of Education, and Mr. Rufus Pulliam of Atlanta, Ga., chief of guidance and testing, Georgia State Department of Education.

The discussion topics will be "Counseling Techniques," "The Teacher as a Counselor," and "Interpreting Test Results."

Applicants Show 86 Per Cent Hike

Applications for admission to Winthrop next September showed an 86 per cent increase the first of February over applications up to the same date last year, according to Registrar John G. Kelly.

This year's freshman class numbers 376. The present 86 per cent increase in the number of applicants being maintained, a class of at least 500 new students can be expected to register next September. This estimate allows for non-acceptances by the college and withdrawals by the applicants.

According to a nationwide survey released recently by the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, federal expenditures in South Carolina degree-granting colleges and universities decreased 2.4 per cent in September of 1957.

However, Winthrop's freshman class this year is 20 per cent larger than last year's, and an even more significant increase in next year's class is assured by the high number of applications already made. Mr. Kelly said.

MRS. BERNICE McCULLAR

Dept. Adds Army Man

Mr. William A. Scheffey, who became an instructor of the Geography Department of Winthrop during second semester, is a native of Puttstown, Pennsylvania. Mr. Scheffey is a 1954 graduate of Westchester Teachers' College in Pennsylvania state.

Upon his release from the Army in October, 1955, Mr. Scheffey entered the University of South Carolina where he took graduate student study in the Department of Geography and Geology.

Mr. Scheffey interrupted his graduate study to teach at Winthrop this semester. He expects to continue advanced graduate study in geography in the near future.

Mr. Scheffey's outside interests are varied. Two of his favorite pastimes are swimming and traveling. He has also been a collector of antique books and coins as a hobby.

CLASSES PLAN FLOATS

The freshmen, sophomore, and junior classes are cooperating with the Juniors in their publicity campaign for Junior Politics by entering floats in the Politics parade.

The parade is to be presented March 8, which is the day Politics will be given.

BAPTISTS HAVE SUPPER

The Baptist Student Union sponsored a modest supper last night at the Student Center at 7:30.

Tuesday a deputation of six went to Wolford in Spartanburg. They were Judy Blamberg, who was in charge of the group, Yvonne Floyd, Ann Carolyn Watkins, Patsy Ben, Jennette Harrelson, and Patsy Cook, BSU Director.

TJ Names Mgn. Editor

Anita Jones, editor of The Johnsonian, announces the appointment of Ann Blackmon, former TJ news editor, as managing editor.

The position of managing editor has been resigned by Anne Marie Ragdale, who is a candidate for the 1958-59 Student Government Association president.

Ann, a sophomore elementary education major from Heath Springs, assumes her duties with this edition of the newspaper. Her former post of news editor is being filled by Kathryn Alverson, sophomore journalism major from Campobello, who was formerly copy editor.

Junior Laura Ballard, biology major from Chesterfield, has been named copy editor.

Filling the positions of associate editors are Marcie Vivada, senior sociology major from Bolivia, and Mary Kirk Smith, junior English major from Lancaster. Ray Anderson, former associate editor, resigned her position because of curricular and extra-curricular activities.

Book - Key Plans Change

Book and Key, the Winthrop honorary scholastic fraternity, met Monday afternoon with its honorary faculty members to discuss the advisability of the organization's applying for a Phi Beta Kappa chapter on the Winthrop campus.

Miss Louise Dale, member of the English Department and Book and Key adviser, presided at the meeting.

Dr. John S. Ellis, Jr., also a member of the English Department, was named special consultant with Phi Beta Kappa. Dr. Hampton Jarrell, head of the English Department, Dr. Lucille Delano, head of the Modern Languages Department, and Miss Duls were chosen as members of a nucleus committee to prepare the local organization to meet Phi Beta Kappa membership requirements.

Dr. Delano, corresponding secretary, was instructed to communicate with national Phi Beta Kappa headquarters in regard to information on revising the Book and Key constitution.

Student members of Book and Key, who must have maintained at least a 3.5 grade point ratio on five semesters of work, plan to revise the club constitution in the near future.

Faculty members who are members of Phi Beta Kappa are honorary members of Book and Key. The six student members are Jane Derrick, Miriam McLaughlin, Anita Jones, Barbara Scott, Nancy Bransington, and Patricia Causey.

SR. ORDER HAS COFFEE

Next Friday at 4:30 p.m. the Senior Order will sponsor an informal coffee for the candidates of SGA, WCA, and WRA. Everyone is invited to come meet and talk with the candidates.

The discussions, both at the dormitories and with Professor Hoefler, were very good. In a discussion with Professor Hoefler at the Wesley Foundation, I particularly enjoyed his comparison between Solomon's portrait of Christ and Paul's paintings of Christ. Rev. Hoefler brought out the fact that Solomon's head of Christ is probably the most well liked and most widely used of all the portraits of Christ, but he felt that Solomon was interpreting Christ for man, yet no modern man knows what Christ actually looked like.

Paul's painting is distorted, and it lets man draw his own conclusions as to what Christ looks like, by titling the colors and lines used for the sincerity and purity of Him. Professor Hoefler expressed his preference to Paul's painting because man can make his own interpretation.

In the convocations on existentialism, Rev. Hoefler cleared up many doubts that had been lingering in my mind for over a year. In all I thought the week was highly successful.

Senior Shirley Weaver had this to say: "The campus was in need

Culp Announces Candidates For Major Campus-Wide Offices

Ann Culp, vice president of the Student Government Association, announces the candidates for the executive offices of the three campus-wide organizations, Senate, and Judicial Board. Elections are scheduled for Tuesday, March 4.

Running for president of SGA are Barbara Ammons, Cynthia Jackson, and Anne Marie Ragdale.

Glória Hester, Joyce Price, and Lucy Stevens are WCA presidential candidates.

Candidates for president of the Winthrop Recreation Association are Joan Crane, Carol Jordan, Iot Kirsapich and Rebecca Moore. Included in Senate's presidential ballot are Tiptoe Foster, Molly Patterson, and Glenda Sue Pittman.

Nominees for chairman of Judicial Board are Pat Anderson, Sandra Armstrong, and Miriam Togneri.

SGA vice presidential nominees are Martha Dillard, Sue Helms, and Janice McDonald. Punk Gaddy, Miriam Knox, and Pat Manheim will run for the vice presidency of WRA. Candidates for WCA vice president are Jo Hickman, Diane Vining, and Betty Witherspoon.

Candidates for secretary of SGA are Dilba Butler, Harriet Dandridge, and Sally Shampert. Running for secretary of WRA are Linda Caldwell, Lili Hall, and Sarah McLemore. Becky Jody Mayer, and Rosa Thornton are nominees for WCA secretary.

SGA candidates for treasurer are Hannah Hickman, Geneva Knox, and Sara Pitts. The WCA's treasurer's ballot will include Ann Dickert, Betty Jean Pritchard, and Marie Spann. Betty King, Patty McElarry, and Mickey Taylor have been nominated for the office of treasurer of WRA.

Barbara Ammons is a junior elementary education major from Seneca. She has served as chairman of the house council and house president of Brazel.

Cynthia Jackson, junior physical education major from Sumter, is a second year secretary of SGA. She has held the office of president of the Freshman class, vice-president of the sophomore class and treasurer of SGA.

Ann Marie Ragdale is a junior religious education major from Easley. Anne has served as president of the Freshman WCA Cabinet and president of the sophomore class. This year she is serving as a dorm senator and a member of the faculty-student committee. She has held the positions of freshman editor, copy editor, news editor, and managing editor of The Johnsonian.

Tatler Meets Sat. Deadline

Last Saturday was the deadline for all Tatler material which is now at press at the R. L. Bryant Company of Columbia and the Charlotte Engraving Company of Charlotte.

The Tatler for 57-58 has been underway since last spring when the staff began the layout and general make-up of the annual.

Jane Lewis, associate editor, wishes to express to everyone her "sincere thanks for their co-operation."

PE Club Aids Civil Defence

Sigma Gamma Nu is now working on a Civil Defense project. The organization is directing the recreational activities of a family for seven days in case of evacuation.

The department club composed of all physical education majors at Winthrop is cooperating with the Home Economics department on the Civil Defense program. A room has been set up in Thurmond Hall to shelter a family of five in the event of evacuation.

Sigma Gamma Nu's officers are Judy Bianchard of Spartanburg, treasurer; Hazel McPhail of Seneca, vice-president; Jane Lawson of Spartanburg, secretary; and Jean Carpenter of Graniteville, president.

Mrs. Julia H. Post, head of the Physical Education Department, is the club's advisor.

TJ Quotes Opinions Of Students, Faculty On Programs Featured During RE Week

By FLORENCE M. BETHIA

During Religious Emphasis Week, much was said, thought and discussed. The following are statements from several students and adults on the campus, as to their opinions on the success of Religious Emphasis Week, what they learned and its effect on them.

Sophomore adviser Patricia Joyce feels that Religious Emphasis Week creates intellectual awakening in the hearts and souls of college students. "I definitely felt that last week Winthrop students were questioning their beliefs and clearing up points that have been bothering them for some time."

"The discussions, both at the dormitories and with Professor Hoefler, were very good. In a discussion with Professor Hoefler at the Wesley Foundation, I particularly enjoyed his comparison between Solomon's portrait of Christ and Paul's paintings of Christ. Rev. Hoefler brought out the fact that Solomon's head of Christ is probably the most well liked and most widely used of all the portraits of Christ, but he felt that Solomon was interpreting Christ for man, yet no modern man knows what Christ actually looked like."

Paul's painting is distorted, and it lets man draw his own conclusions as to what Christ looks like, by titling the colors and lines used for the sincerity and purity of Him. Professor Hoefler expressed his preference to Paul's painting because man can make his own interpretation.

In the convocations on existentialism, Rev. Hoefler cleared up many doubts that had been lingering in my mind for over a year. In all I thought the week was highly successful.

Senior Shirley Weaver had this to say: "The campus was in need of a spiritual awakening, and I believe Professor Hoefler fulfilled this need. His talks were dynamic and yet were on a medium which reached everyone. He gave me a new insight on my relationship with God."

"What is your excuse for living?" was the question that opened Pat Leland's mind to the realization that Religious Emphasis Week was beginning.

"This question," says Pat, "became more and more vital to me as the week went on. The realization that we live in a lost world and that our gods are dead shocked some of us into opening our thoughts to others as we shared ideas and beliefs in discussions that lasted until all hours of the day and into the night. Thoughts of what I believe have come to be a vital part of my life and the hopefulness of finding our foundation in hope led many of us to the desire to be 'a light in the window.'"

"I hope that my excuse for living has become a better one through this past week which should spread out to cover the rest of my life and bring it to be free from that 'disease called complacency.'"

An anonymous bystander said, "Upperclassmen, have you ever seen more students and faculty members, especially at the convocations of a Religious Emphasis Week speaker? I think not. Mr. Hoefler possessed a quality that few theologians can claim. He had the ability to hold the attention of and to interpret to a variety of individuals with different intellects a subject that deeply concerned them all. Religious Emphasis Week could not have been more successful."

Religious Emphasis Week has become a part of Miss Ann Up's year, and she has told us that which she participated in it.

"By its very nature, each Religious Emphasis Week for me has been similar yet stimulating through varied channels of thought," says this faculty member. "During this last Religious Emphasis Week, I believe, I was most impressed with the realization that each person in attendance was indeed different as soon as he heard the speaker's words. This must be true, for we are a total of all we have experienced. Whether we acknowledge this change that came over us or ignore it, it is a decision each will make by his very act of being. Because others received the same stimulus for change, it makes for unity or group being. It is because of others that we feel the need for mirroring the self of our choosing and find real challenge for expression of this decision."

Dr. Nolan P. Jacobson, head of the Religion and Philosophy Department, said of Religious Emphasis Week:

"Our Religious Emphasis Week this year was by all odds the best I have seen at Winthrop. Hundreds of students participated in the plans; hundreds more carried out these plans.

"Interested organizations, religious and otherwise, both on and off campus, supported the week to the limit of their power. Miss Snow, Phyllis Bates, and every person responsible for this program should be congratulated in every possible way."

"Mr. Hoefler laid bare the deep and abiding religious issues more clearly and dramatically than any religious emphasis speaker I have heard. In this major task of speaker, a speaker, he served us with clarity and power. I am personally grateful to each person who played a part in making this week a stimulating and rich experience."

Students Lead RE Dorm Discussions

Playing a part in Religious Emphasis Week were the dormitory discussions.

This is the first year that such discussions have been held. Pioneer discussion leaders in Senior Hall were Jane Derrick and Beverly Derrick. Records of the questions discussed were Yvonne Floyd and Ray Anderson.

In Hancock, leaders in Senior Hall were Jane Derrick and Beverly Derrick. Records of the questions discussed were Yvonne Floyd and Ray Anderson.

We So Move: A Return To Student Government

The Johnsonian advocates a return to student government.

Candidates have been approached for the most powerful campus-wide offices of the Winthrop "Big Three." The Winthrop students have a right to demand of these candidates during the coming political campaign their ideas on government "of the people, by the people, for the people" or government "of the administration, by the administration, for the administration."

The reformation which was instigated last year in both the Student Government Association and the Winthrop Recreation Association has come to a complete standstill this year as the student officers and the administration have struggled for controlling power.

The promise of a day when student officers would be self-nominated because they felt themselves capable, not worthy, of holding an office has dimmed into a hazy Utopia in the minds of those who have been forced this year to spend all their energy and time literally begging for concessions and much worse, bargains, from the administration.

Student government, anyway, at Winthrop is at a stalemate. No progress can be made until the government can be come one entirely of, by, and for the students.

We do not recommend that students return to power in the "Big Three" only next year, or after the 1958-59 officers are elected. Three months are still left in this school year. The damage is not irreparable; the conflict is not irreconcilable.

Winthrop students do not want to be treated as giddy, irresponsible finishing school girls who are only too happy to leave matters of government and organized campus civic organizations to the administration while they learn the correct way to pour tea from a silver tea service.

We maintain that we are not too emotional in matters of grave importance to us.

College is allegedly a preparation for life. We shall never be prepared for life until we are allowed to handle our emotions, our activities, our discipline, our problems without a higher hand investigating, planning, and guiding the whole business from the start.

We demand to be adults. We demand to be treated like adults. Else the whole purpose of our attending college is defeated.

Discriminate Thinking Leads To Qualified Leaders

By BETTY KENNEDY

Students are coming up, and the campus is buzzing with discussions of who has been nominated for what office, and the parlor politicians are urging people to vote for this or that candidate.

Interest in candidates and their qualifications to hold office is a healthy and desirable thing, and in this respect parlor politicians serve a good purpose. However, they aren't a very reliable source of information.

They aren't objective in their point of view, for they have made up their minds and have a vested interest in helping a person decide the same way. Campaign managers make their intentions very clear, so one tends to be more able to evaluate what they are saying than those who don't fly visibly under certain colors.

All of us will be given the chance to talk with the candidates in house meetings and other places. Why get the necessary information from someone else when we can get it from them? We have further opportunity to question these people when we meet them about campus, in the cafeteria, and on the way to classes. We can talk with ourselves over this and say that these people are busy. Well, to say, this is true, but we must remember that they weren't too busy to accept the nomination and they won't be too busy to answer questions.

We might say to ourselves that we are being a little unfair in asking people to answer questions to the right of the blue, but these people will be called on to answer many such questions if they are elected and asked the same time to find out what they can do.

The election of really capable students to fill positions of importance on our campus is the responsibility of every member of the student body. Many times we can hear harsh criticism of those who hold these offices.

A famous politician, whose administration has been characterized by gross neglect of his duties, said to the public in answer to their boos and hisses on the occasion of one of his public appearances that he was resigning but he wanted to remain to finish them off.

"If I had spent a little more time in my office, and a little less time watching baseball games for the last sixteen years, things might have been different — but you remember one thing, you voted to make me your mayor. You were as blind and foolish as I was."

We must remember this when we are critical of someone already elected, but the time to really take this into consideration is at election time.

Let us exercise caution and wisdom in choosing someone to vote for. We must guard against undisciplined thinking; we must not vote for a girl because we have heard her name before, nor demand a candidate because her name isn't on the lips of our friends.

Take advantage of the opportunity to get to know each candidate before deciding. Vote for the candidate who according to her capabilities, not according to a name or a lack of it. She won't have a name when she is elected, but an important job to do.

Once-A-Year Day Replaces Penicillin: Better Than Geritol

By BETTY SANDERS

Since the arrival of Ross and Adler to the musical comedy field, a new trend has begun sweeping the nation. There is a strong consensus that this revolutionary idea has been around for ages, but evidently in theory only, for no one has hitherto been bold enough to even attempt a "Once-A-Year-Day." Now, however, they are being used as replacements for penicillin, codine, and Russian roulette.

The procedure consists of merely getting away from it all — preferably as far away as possible — and then doing what one jolly well pleases. The authentic Once-A-Year-Day entails drawing every cent of one's allowances from the bank; signing out for a weekend in the middle of the week (particularly on the night before a big test); going at least a hundred miles away to visit people who haven't the slightest idea you're coming; and stopping all along the way to gulp down fattening foods which are definitely not included in one's diet.

To be completely "according to Hoyle," one must scream at the top of one's lungs such rowdy songs as "I Don't Care" or

"I'm Not At All In Love," being especially careful to intersperse snatches of "This Is My Once-A-Year Day."

Once-A-Year-Days are, however, habit forming and may often lead to "Once-A-Week-Days or even Once-A-Day-Days, and therefore should be taken with the greatest of caution — and only on a roommate's advice. One nice aspect, however, is that the intensity may be varied from the smallest kind of non-conformity (i.e., drinking a coke) to something extra-large. Although Once-A-Year-Days are miraculous cures for almost any sort of frustration or depression, they are best suited to the alleviation of worries caused by:

1. Failing a mid-semester
2. Dear Joins
3. Blue Mondays
4. Having your date call the type of test
5. Failure to get a satellite off the ground
6. Adnan Fhu outbursts
7. Having your date call the afternoon of a dance to say he's snored—in, that is

In conclusion, it is recommended that everyone try at least one Once-A-Year-Day! It's better than Geritol!

Diogenes With A Torch Searches

For An Honest Candidate

Wanted! A candidate who will stand up for an issue—a definite, concrete issue, whether it be a joke box for the canteen or student evaluation of the faculty.

The world, including the Winthrop campus, is full of people who are proverbial "do-gooders"—who are for motherhood and the United States and the church and who are against sin and Communism and pickpockets and child-bearers.

Such ideologies and ideals are fine for dreamers who spend their time dreaming. But the first step to attaining these philosophic ideals is the realization of seemingly small concrete goals such as simplified out-of-town sign outs and a better campus telephone system.

Winthrop has come far in the few years that the Class of 1958 has been here. It has seen the era of the navy and white uniform and the advent of television sets in the dormitory.

Just last year the entire former Winthrop Athletic Association was revamped to become one of the most functional organizations on the campus.

Last year saw the establishment of the Winthrop Intercollegiate Council to coordinate the program of the campus "Big Three."

SGA has expanded its program to include the National Student Association which, though it may afford the Winthrop campus few visual benefits, is nevertheless indispensable in affording student leaders and students themselves an opportunity to exchange programs and ideas with other students throughout the nation. In a more concrete fashion, NSA co-operated with SGA this year in sponsoring United Nations Week on campus.

A discussion of the un-Christian qualities in Eugene O'Neill's plays was one of WCA's activities. The denominational centers' suppers during Religious Emphasis Week and the student-led discussion groups of the same week were student instigated.

All of these examples prove the efficiency and the potential power of student leaders to accomplish things if they want to accomplish them.

Such issues as an unlimited cut system within reason; the co-education of the college, pro and con; a guidance counselor; and more personal contact with the international students are not unfamiliar to Winthrop candidates. Previous candidates and officers have advocated most of these issues, though they have not yet become laws.

But these issues are still as apropos today as they were yesterday. Present officers will not be able to accomplish, perhaps, all of their proposals, but they are good enough to warrant the support of future officers.

But more important than taking as one's own these issues that have been part of the platforms of previous candidates is the objective and creative recognition of new progressive issues on the campus.

The students cry for a candidate who will support what she believes is right. And, The Johnsonian is willing to support any candidate who has the fortitude to take a definite stand on definite controversies, even if the stand is different from its own.

Evasion Through Emotions

During the past week Dr. Hoefler pointed out a very uncomfortable and complex problem which affects all of us. He observed that our lives are marked by a primacy of emotion and consequently a lack of discipline. Rule by emotion is not regulated in any way; it is wild and grows wider. Discipline, conversely, is not a natural or inherited quality, but one which must be earned.

We Winthrop students emote our lives away. We just can't eat that dinner, so we treat ourselves via Dad's hard-earned money with a trip to the Good Shoppe. We find two hours of concentrated study too conducive to loneliness, so we pamper our psychoses with numerous card games and coffee breaks.

We elaborate on the facts about the girl in the too-tight sweaters to let pent-up emotions out where they can't form ulcers. We spend time that should have been reserved for that term paper with a date who often proves less interesting than the paper itself.

We rush home every Sunday because the solitude is too great to be conquered, and after all, life is for pleasure, and it is much easier to go where pleasure already is than to try to make our own joys. We avoid questions of religious doubt because they make us "uncomfortable."

We have petted our whims and emotions so long that a determined, logical, disciplined concentration is practically impossible. Some degree of discipline concentration is practically impossible. Some degree of discipline must be achieved in each individual life if unity and meaning are one's objectives.

There are times when we must realize that we came to college to get an education, as well as a man. By disciplining our time and actions properly, we can play without worrying about long overdue work. By disciplining our emotions, we can experience new areas of self-growth that are impossible to be found by trying to escape frustration.

We must face up to our doubts, seek to resolve them with a great deal of less of Ann Landers and Edna Wright and with more of the intelligent use of the abilities of reason and self-discipline.

Cold Wind And Hot Air

The students beg for one, just one, good reason for having an assembly when the speakers have to search for something to say. Tuesday was the perfect example. Certainly the point about student suggestions for next year's Artist Series program which Mr. Graham made and the point about student suggestions on curriculum content which Dean McCoy made were points which the students welcomed and which should be made sometime to the entire student body.

But why devote an entire assembly period, for which a speaker was lacking due to the extreme weather conditions, to present these small points which could well have been presented to the students during a short prologue to a regular assembly program?

The very conditions which prevented Dr. Rainey from appearing as part of the Lecture Series were the very conditions which should have forbade the experience which Winthrop students, and even guests who were too polite to leave, had to undergo. Admittedly the Winthrop College Auditorium is always cold to a degree, even on the warmest of winter days. But the extremely cold weather of the past few days, and of Tuesday in particular, made the auditorium extremely uncomfortable to sit in for 60 minutes.

It appears that the only real reason for holding students to the rule of Tuesday assembly this past Tuesday was that students MUST go to assembly Tuesdays at 11:50 a. m.—period.

Certainly some of the students could have used the time to much greater advantage catching up on parallel reading or studying for a test. Certainly some of the students would have loafed the extra free time away, but wouldn't that be better than having these same students catch colds or even pneumonia from sitting in the Article-like auditorium?

We don't mind, really, attending assembly when we feel we will get something worthwhile from it. But we do object to going to assembly just for the sake of going to assembly.

Printed With A Hope We'll Print It Someday

The proposed unlimited cut system for seniors is still in the process of being acted upon by the faculty-student committee and President Sims. The Johnsonian hopes that someday it will be able to print the following story on its own front page. The article, taken from the February 7 Furman Hornet, reveals the success of the unlimited cut system introduced on the Furman campus this year. It is also encouraging to note that the reaction came essentially from the faculty.

"Essentially the same program of unlimited cuts for juniors and seniors will continue this semester, Dean of the Men's College, Francis W. Bonner, indicated this week.

"The program, begun as a faculty experiment last Fall, allows juniors and seniors who have averaged 2.2 in all studies to take unlimited unexcused absences from their classes up to one-fourth of the class meetings in any one class.

"The Dean indicated that he was pleased with the efficiency of the new system. Men students took only .77 of the allowed cuts per class while women were more lenient, taking 2.4 cuts per class. Privileges were revoked in several instances because of excessive chapel cuts. Only one chapel cut is allowed per semester under University regulations.

"Bonner said that a new study would be required to determine the effects of the system on the grades of those persons falling under it. Bonner stated early in first semester that the faculty had expected that the system would work because of the caliber of students having the requirements to fall under it.

"He stated then that the faculty had expressed a desire to make the system more lenient, lower the grade requirement to 2.0 and allow sophomores the advantages of it. He said that a prolonged study would have to be made before it could be altered, however."

WC's Big Three Candidates State Platforms

Veeps Discuss Policy Aims

Vice-presidential candidates of the "Big Three" state their platforms as follows:

SGA VICE-PRESIDENT
Martha Dillard
"As a candidate for the vice-presidency of the Winthrop Student Government Association, I agree, if elected, to forward the interest of the students as much as possible."

"Being interested in freshmen, I would try to make the freshman orientation program a meaningful one. I think that more emphasis should be put on the honor code, particularly in freshmen orientation, so that the honor code would remain in the student mind during their college career and after."

"I think that since each student is a member of Student Government, each girl on this campus should feel her importance, and recognize her need in helping to plan for the campus. The relationship between a Student Government officer and a member of Student Government should be a good one. Students should not be afraid to voice their opinions. Each student on campus forms an important part in Student Government work."

"I believe that our handbook needs some revisions. Too many of the rules can be interpreted too many ways. The rules need to be clarified as much as possible. If this were done, I feel that the students could understand the rules better, and thus eliminate friction caused by different interpretations of rules."

"I feel that all these points and others beside these are important on a college campus, and should be given serious consideration, so that all Winthrop Students will be proud to say that they are members of the Winthrop Student Government Association."

See Helms
"I am in favor of an honor system at Winthrop. Although there is already a certain degree of honor here, I feel that it should be channeled through a system in order to make a deeper impression on every student."

"Also, I would like to see Freshman Orientation improved. There seems to be a need to extend the orientation to at least two days before upperclassmen arrive on campus. An orientation planning program that will prove meaningful to each Freshman, but that will not be squeezed into such a short length of time will prove more satisfactory, I believe."

"If elected, I will strive to the best of my ability to carry out the plans I have laid before you."

Janice McDonald
"Next year we are expecting a marked increase in the number of freshmen, thus increasing the emphasis on our freshman orientation program. Orientation is the process of aiding students in their adaptation to life at Winthrop. Through the orientation program we must help the freshmen adjust in the fullest, possible measure."

"There has been improvement in the election procedure. I would like to work to continue in this area and strive toward further improvement."

WCA VICE-PRESIDENT
Jo Hickman

"If elected to serve as vice-president of the WCA, I would strive toward making this organization meaningful in the lives of all the girls on our campus instead of being beneficial only to those who hold a special interest in this phase of campus life and thus put forth the most effort in supporting and benefitting from the program."

"I feel that WCA's influence could be broadened particularly through the Tappet groups. If the leaders of these groups could be induced to recognize the needs of the girls and to guide the programs more to the specific than to the general, depending upon whatever is brought to the surface as being of the greatest interest and concern to the majority of students in their spiritual lives."

"I would also like to see an even greater closeness among the major campus-wide organizations so that the tendency to categorize both people and events under the name of one particular organization might be lessened, and the feeling of unity and wholeness might be increased. This could be done through the Intercollegiate Council or through occasional meetings of the entire councils and sub-groups of all the organizations for the purpose of evaluating and gaining a greater insight into prevailing needs and problems on our campus."

Executive Nominees Declare Principles

The Johnsonian, in publishing its annual election edition, presents to the student body the platforms of the individual candidates so that each student may more objectively and discriminately evaluate each candidate.

Presidential nominees for the executive offices of the Student Government Association, the Winthrop Christian Association, and the Winthrop Recreation Association have made the following statements:

SGA PRESIDENT
Barbara Ammons

"I think there can be no stand stronger for a nominee for Student Government Association president than that which the name of the organization implies—the governing of the students by the students themselves through the representatives which they have democratically elected."

"Sometimes I feel that the individual voice of the student is lost in the network of offices and to me that is not student government. Each officer of the organization should be made more aware of her responsibility to voice the desires, the complaints, and the suggestions of the particular which she represents."

"Some of the rules in the handbook have brought about much discussion and confusion this year. These rules, one such being the $30 car rule, should be so clarified that each student will have no doubt as to what is expected of her, and when revision is necessary either to revise or to recommend revision."

"I believe the height of any student government organization is reaching the phase in an active honor system where the conduct of the student is her single responsibility. I would like to see next year the students gradually given more opportunity in this responsibility, keeping in mind the goal of an honor system using the honor code as a stepping stone. There should be a gradual education toward attaining this goal."

"An effective means should be worked through Student Government by means of the students on campus to the Rock Hill community, to the state, and to the national happenings."

Cynthia Jackson
"Winthrop has a Student Government of which we can all be proud, as can be seen through discussions and comparisons with other colleges and universities. The factor that plays the largest role in making it such an organization is that the role of the individual student is emphasized. Student government must continue to function through the students."

"I strongly favor student-administration co-operation but not administration dictation."

"I will support an honor system if it meets four main goals: 1. It will support a fourth week for second semester freshmen. 2. It will work to bring about as soon as possible an unlimited cut system for seniors with a 'B' average. 3. It will support a fourth week for second semester freshmen. 4. It will work to bring about as soon as possible an unlimited cut system for seniors with a 'B' average."

"I elected to this office I will strive to make these statements become actuality. To me the second paragraph of this platform is not something that must be, but something that must be."

Handa Hickman
"As a freshman candidate for treasurer of the Student Government Association, I would like to say that this organization exists for students and in order for it to do this, SGA must function through the students. I would like to work with the Executive Council in making the students feel that they are the means of Student Government and they are invited to take part in it."

"I realize the duty and the responsibility of the treasurer of SGA. I know the importance of neatness, accuracy, and promptness in attending to the money matters of such an organization."

"I only want to say, if elected as treasurer of SGA, I will fulfill the duties of this office in the best of my ability, and I will work with all phases of Student Government to keep its importance campus-wide."

Geneva Knox
"Since we recognize the importance of SGA to the Winthrop students it is evident that every member should realize the importance of active participation."

"I realize the duty and the responsibility of the treasurer of SGA. I know the importance of neatness, accuracy, and promptness in attending to the money matters of such an organization."

Secretarial Candidates Enunciate WRA, WCA, SGA Election Policies

Candidates for the SGA, WCA, and WRA secretarial positions have made the following statements concerning their policies for the coming election:

SGA SECRETARY
Debbs Butler

"This past year SGA strove for unity among the three organizations, the beginnings of an honor code, and an insurance plan for college students. Students Government should continue to strive for all these items. The honor code should be emphasized more during this year, for Winthrop needs one."

"Student Government also needs the interest and enthusiasm of every student on this campus. Whether it is realized or not, when a person comes to Winthrop, she is automatically a member of SGA. This should be understood and remembered throughout her four years. If this is done, SGA can function more efficiently with the help and support of everyone."

"The scope of Student Government needs to be widened by everybody. Only a few have a real perspective of its unlimited range and the part Winthrop's Student Government may take. This definitely needs to be emphasized a great deal during the coming year."

Marilee Dantier
"If given the opportunity to serve as secretary of the Winthrop Student Government Association, my foremost concern would be to perform the duties designated by my office as efficiently as is possible in the belief that by so doing it will enable my co-officers to work more effectively. Growing in the ability to carry out the duties mentioned above, I would then divert my attention to the support of more specific goals. They would include the following:

1. I would strive to strengthen the connecting link between the faculty and the administration on the one hand and the students on the other, being of the firm conviction that a better understanding between the two is essential for the cooperation which is imperative in the attainment of the highest standards of curricula and extracurricular activities."

2. I strongly advocate a greater emphasis on the existing honor code as an intermediate step to the operation of a full-fledged honor system. I believe that this will challenge each student to conduct herself at all times in accordance with their innate qualities of honor and integrity."

3. Realizing the necessity for order in governing any mass of people I would support the enforcement of these rules that promote the well-being of the student body as a whole. At the same time I would aspire to the formulation of these policies that develop an awareness as well as an ability in functioning in the society outside the walls of Winthrop College; for the position that we as leaders in the immediate future must fill is a strategic one in the world of today."

Sally Schumpert
"If elected to student government secretary, I would perform, to the best of my ability, the duties of the office listed in the Handbook. One of the most important of these duties is membership on executive board—the overall planning committee of SGA activities."

"I would endeavor to bring about more student participation in student government by a closer contact between house councils and executive board."

"By increased publication of overall SGA goals, I would also attempt to bring to students a concept of the Winthrop Student Government Association which stresses not only enforcement of rules and regulations but also the possibilities of a dynamic student organization."

WCA SECRETARY
Becky Cole

"Upon announcing my candidacy for secretary of WCA, I would like to state my platform. It is as follows:

I would like to see improvement of Tappet programs. I would encourage the use of the Prayer Rooms and the Little Chapel in Johnson Hall. I would like to start hymn-sings in the dorms. I would promote the distribution of guides for personal devotions among the students. I would encourage the continuation of dorm discussions. I would like to begin a prayer group on campus."

Judy Meyer
"I would like to have the opportunity of working through the Winthrop Christian Association in providing for the spiritual stimulation and development of all of us. I will try to do my best, and to represent students' needs and ideas."

Rose Thornton
"If I am elected secretary of the Winthrop Christian Association, I will make the goal of the association my goal; that is, to help foster and develop among Winthrop students a sincere Christian creed and faith as a guide and support in life through membership and participation in the activities of the association and similar groups."

"Since I believe that the individual should decide many of her basic beliefs while in college, I would like to help plan programs and activities that would encourage the individual to take time out from her busy schedule for thinking about and discussing issues. I would like to see a WCA program that would interest and meet the needs of every student."

"Since many girls who would like to attend church on Sunday nights are unable to go to the churches in town, I would like to see some sort of Sunday night program established on campus. Perhaps this could be a combined effort of all student centers with the responsibility for planning the program and holding the service, rotating among the denominational centers. This program could be coordinated by WCA. Also, I would like to promote the use of the Little Chapel in Johnson Hall for Tappet programs. Individual meditation and so on."

"Throughout the year's work, I will faithfully attend meetings of the association, the Executive Board, and the Cabinet, and keep accurate minutes of these meetings. I will keep ever before me the idea of serving God and each Winthrop student."

WRA SECRETARY
Linda Caldwell

"If elected as secretary of the WRA, I will cooperate to the best of my ability with the organization and its leaders. I will keep effective and complete records subject to the duties of my office. I believe that the WRA is a growing organization, growing not only in size, but in importance to the life of the Winthrop student. This association of all members of our student body must have leaders who are capable and dedicated; for an important office or duty demands time, work, and first place in extra-curricular events. I believe I am capable. I would like to have the opportunity and privilege of serving the Winthrop Student body as secretary of the WRA."

Lto Hall
"I have been chosen as a candidate for Secretary of your WRA, and I am taking this opportunity to state my platform. (Continued on page six)

Senate President, Judy Chairman Nominees State Aims Of Office

Presidential nominees for the Senate and nominees for chairman of the Judicial Board have the following to say in stating their platforms:

SENATE PRESIDENT
Tippi Foster

"As President of the Senate I would represent the student body, not myself for the administration, and would sponsor those things which would be for the welfare of the students. The Senate is the most powerful organization at Winthrop because it is the voice of the students, and I feel that this voice should be heard."

"I would like to see more students who are not senators attending the Senate meetings so that they will know what is being done. Publicity for the Senate has been good this year, but most students are not aware of what is happening in our government. I would like for Senate to keep before the student body what our state and national senators are doing."

"I deeply appreciate the honor of this nomination for President of the Senate. If elected I will carry out my responsibilities as best I know how."

Mollie Partridge
"Although Senate is regarded by most students as the legislative branch of our Student Government, it is also the executive branch. I would like to see the Senate more active in the administration of the Student Government."

Social Eyes

MARY MITCHEM
Society Editor

As Cupid roamed over the week end the college campus became a Winter Wonderland. Many students stayed at Winthrop and attended the Sweetheart Ball. Others were present at neighboring colleges for Valentine and Mid Winter Dances.

Cupid At Work

Congratulations go to Delores Lamb and Cathy Robinson. Delores is engaged to Ken Jankowski of Chicago and Cathy to Ray Smith from Charleston.

Davidson Is A Popular Place

Among those students seen at Davidson for the Mid Winters were Jean Mabry, Ann Hutchinson, Jenny Addison, Betty Charles Baxley, Betty Jane Hamer, Martha Belle Wheeler, Sarah Jeter, Dibia Butler, Joan Varner, and Martha Goodwin.

Also, Carolyn Senger, Sister Skidder, Dicky Debbins, Gloria Hester, Patty Hughes, Patty McClary, Margaret Rood, Betty Small, Trudy Brown, Rai Pope, and Gwen Atkinson.

Citadel Class Students

Mary Ellen Murphy, Rose Ann Taylor, Linda Stevens, Lillibeth Duval, Sara Pitts, Jo Hickman, Laura Ballard, Jeanie Black, Rose Thornton, Lenore Jordan, Frances Sanders, and Dale Smook attended the Valentine Ball at the Citadel last week end.

Winthrop Go To Wolford

Judy Slaughter and Rosalind Sallenger were among the students who made it to snow-bound Wolford for the dances.

Even The University of Tennessee

Ann River was a guest at the University of Tennessee where she attended the mid-winter dances.

Seen Here and There

Seen in different places were Betty Sue Lutz, Lenoir, Glenda Sue Pittman, Lancaster, Maxine Clay, Rock Hill; Dot Fowler, Nichols; Patsy Taylor, Lockhart; and Martha Jean Shelly, Newberry.

Attend Convention

Sara McLenore and Joan Crane attended a WRA Convention in Athens, Georgia last week end.

Deputation To Wolford

Those students representing the BSU at Wolford College Tuesday were Patsy Box, Judy Blanchard, Ann Carolyn Watkins, Yvonne Floyd, Janette Harrison and Peggy McCall.

masses be looked upon as a legislative body, but as an organization of enthusiastic students who are interested in supporting the WRA, WCA, and SGA in order to get a wide scope of interests and requests from all students.

"I am also interested in seeing the Senate support projects such as 'mock' State Legislatures, drills in Parliamentary Procedure, etc. — anything to inform the students of the procedures carried on by our state and national government today. Much progress could be attained if the Senators — girls who are the elected representatives of the respective classes — support these main organizations.

"I know that by our progress made next year, all will realize that Senate is the Winthrop College contribution toward making better citizens who will have a thorough understanding of the actions taken by the government in the community, state, and nation."

Glenda Sue Pittman
"Only by being a member of Senate this year have I come to realize what a significant part this branch of Student Government plays on the Winthrop campus. Senate gives each student a rightful opportunity to express her ideas and only with the full support of the student body can Senate function effectively.

"I promise to uphold anything which would be for the good of the students and for the betterment of Winthrop College. I believe in giving the student a chance always — a chance to develop her ideas, and a chance to express her beliefs.

"Since all legislative power is vested in the Senate and the Student-Faculty Senate Committee, I promise my full cooperation in working out any problems which might arise. I will study Winthrop's policies in regard to any area in which Senate is represented, so that I might better understand the exact duties and functions of the Senate.

"I promise to carry on the things which are being undertaken by the present Senate, and to do my best to fill the office to its fullest capacity.

"I appreciate the faith shown in me by my being nominated, and my best efforts will go into anything I undertake to do."

WCA PRESIDENT

Gloria Hester

"As a candidate for WCA President, I would like, among other things, to see a training program set up for Taps Leaders, whereby they will become better prepared for leadership of their Taps groups. In this program the leaders would have presented to them material suggested and available for Taps programs.

"Also the new art places reserved by cabinet could be explained and discussed so the leaders will be able to center a program around them. The WCA's Moon Devotions have proven well worth continuing, and I think cabinet should continue to engage good outside speakers. I would like to see developed a program of more discussion of modern novels, movies, and plays.

"I want to see the WCA program planned and carried out in a manner that would meet basic student needs and help each student realize her worth and importance as a member of WCA."

Joyce Pates

"The purpose of WCA is to set up and present programs by which and through which the students might find themselves. The situations concerned with the spiritual aspects evolving on campus are ever changing and changing. One of the most effective ways to meet these needs would be to provide for free self-expression on the part of individuals. This could be accomplished by having more student discussions, not only at times of special emphasis but through the year, on such subjects as music, art, and literature.

"The set up of WCA is one of the most complete on campus. To keep this system strong, there needs to be a more intensive training program for Taps Leaders — in upperclassmen dorms as well as freshmen. A wider representation of the student body is needed on WCA cabinet. This would bring a greater range of ideas into the planning of the various programs.

Lucy Stewart

"Taps groups are the immediate links between WCA and the students. It is through this media that most students can be reached and the aim of WCA be accomplished. I feel that the Taps program can be improved by placing emphasis on the types of Taps programs that would prove most suitable for the specific case.

"Variety could be used very effectively here by keeping the interest of the particular group in mind. WCA could work more closely with the Taps Leaders at the beginning of the year and thus have a more representative Taps program. By such careful planning Taps could become more than just another meeting on Thursday night.

"When speakers were discontinued at the end of last year, my understanding was that they would be replaced in some way. I feel that informal discussion groups with either adult or student leaders would help this problem. I think the discussion groups during Religious Emphasis Week went over very well, and some follow ups of these could prove beneficial. Discussion groups of a wide range of subjects could justify the needs of many students."

WRA PRESIDENT

Jean Crane

"The WRA is a vital part of the Winthrop Campus. I feel that the WRA has provided an excellent program for the entire student body during this school year. On campus there are all types of girls with varied interests, skills and talents. I believe that these various needs have been met, and if elected I would strive to meet these needs and the new needs and interests which might arise.

"Having worked with the WRA this year, I have become aware of the problems that confront this organization and feel that I have gained insight which would help me meet the entire student body during this school year. I believe that the WRA has a program designed for all students and that each student should support and take part in the activities which are offered.

"The WRA is concerned with recreation for each student and not merely athletic ability. If elected I would strive to have each student realize that this is her program and the activities and events planned are for her enjoyment and benefit. Recreation makes for a well-rounded person — one better able to face life's situations. The WRA needs the support of each Winthrop student."

Carol Jordan

"In my opinion WRA has been quite successful this year. The program has been more definite and better planned than previous years. I would like to see the program expanded so as to include more of the student body. The criticism of WRA has long been that it serves only a few — the P. E. majors. It would be one of my objectives to remedy this situation.

"I would continue the special events program and if possible enlarge it so as to provide more campus social life. The informal dances have already been tried and found successful perhaps next year the Co. Ice Activities Program could be hoped and become as successful as the dances.

"To sum it up, my idea of the WRA is an organization for the students, and unless it serves them, it fails its primary purpose."

Don Hestpatrick

"As a candidate for President of WRA, I would like to further and develop this organization which is to provide, to promote, and to direct a program of recreation for all students of Winthrop College according to the capacities, interests and needs of each.

"I would like to see S.G.A., W.C.A., and W.R.A. continue to work closely together and through this develop desirable attitudes and habits of participation for the enrichment of social and campus life.

"I would like to see the Winthrop Recreation Association become a living part of every student's life."

"Becky" Moore

"I am very grateful and appreciative in having been nominated for president of the Winthrop Recreation Association. If it is the desire of our student body for me to be elected to this responsible service, I sincerely state here to you that I will make every possible effort to strive for the needs of the girls in this campus.

"It is our aim in coming to college to get an education. It is my belief that a person is cut off from a big part of their education if they are not provided with such recreation as to help them to live a more useful and contributing life in our democratic society. It is through recreation, be it active or passive, that we learn how to cooperate and get along with other people.

"It is certainly obvious that the working days and hours have been and will continue to be shortened. How are we going to use our leisure time wisely if we have not been presented with and taken part in recreation while in college? We are in college to get an education to better prepare ourselves for living. Let us not hurt ourselves, the communities we live in, and the college we will have by not taking advantage of a big part of education — recreation."

"Sheep" Film Shows Here In Auditorium

WC Students Attend Clinic

On Friday, February 14, the Winthrop Sociology Club attended the Workshop on Careers in Social Work at the Russell House Auditorium of the University of South Carolina.

This workshop is sponsored by the South Carolina Council on Education for Social Work and the Social Service Federation of South Carolina College Students.

Dr. Allen D. Edwards, of the Sociology Department of Winthrop College, gave the introduction at 10:30 Friday morning. Dr. Edwards is Chairman of the S. C. Council on Education for Social Work.

"Why I want to be a Social Worker" was given by Betty Lane Cherry of Columbia College, Columbia, S. C.

All schools of social work in this area are represented by their top officials. Schools sending representatives were the University of South Carolina, Furman University, University of Tennessee, University of North Carolina, Florida State University, Tulane University, William and Mary, Winthrop College, and the State Department of Public Welfare.

Officers of the Winthrop Sociology Club are Lu Livingston, president; Ann Taylor, vice-president; Rose Marie Conroy, treasurer; and Margaret Reid, secretary. Dr. Dorothy Jones is a member of the committee which planned the workshop.

The Modern Language Department will present the French film "The Sheep Has Five Legs," in the Winthrop Auditorium Tuesday, at 6:45 p.m.

The picture features the French comedian, Fernandel, who is considered to be France's most popular comedian. During a recent trip that Bob Hope made to France, he met Fernandel for the first time. Though neither could speak the other's language, they became fast friends. They are now planning to make a movie together.

"The Sheep Has Five Legs" is spoken in French, but there are English subtitles for those who do not understand French. But Fernandel's actions are funny even when he does not talk.

Winhecon Gives Civil Defense Needs

At a recent meeting of the Winthrop Club a program on civil defense was given. Contemporary needs and practical defense methods were presented to the members.

Suzanne McPherson, Joan Ogle and Emily Bork took part in a skit which explained the role of the family in the defense program. A film, "Survival Under Atomic Attack" was shown to demonstrate civil defense on the national level.

Miss Juanita H. Neely, former home demonstration director, was a special guest at the meeting. She presented plans for the National Home Economic Association meeting to be held in Philadelphia, June 24-27.

At the meeting plans for the Spring Rally of the Student Division of the South Carolina Home Economic Association were also discussed. The meeting will be held March 12-14 at Winthrop. Peggy Berley is president of the State Association, and Ann Blaney is secretary.

Student Playwrights Write Winning Plays

Winning plays submitted by high school playwrights for the Palmetto Dramatic Association's Festival at Winthrop March 15-18 have been selected by members of the Winthrop Theatre.

Student groups from each playwright's school will premiere the plays at that time.

The playwrighting contest was initiated by Mr. William L. Long, director of the Winthrop Theatre, to encourage young playwrights to be creative and to promote growth in high school drama.

A variety of themes and settings were included in the plays submitted, which range from situation comedy to modern tragedy. In addition to student-written plays, one-act plays by professionals will also be presented in competition during the festival.

Prizes are being offered for the best one-act script, best production, best acting, make-up, scenery, and publicity displays.

Over 160 students are expected to attend the Festival. Drama teachers and student groups planning to attend include: John W. Mobley, Myrtle Beach, William Wade Burley, Spartanburg High School, Mrs. J. M. Arant, Orangeburg High School, Mrs. H. W. Mizell, Cleveland Junior High School, Spartanburg, and Mrs. Les Reynolds, Winthrop Training School, Rock Hill.

WRA Offers Fun Recreation

The WRA offers media of recreation in the gymnasium for every student.

Located here is the swimming pool with capable life guards on duty at all times when the pool is open. The pool is equipped for 27 students whether they swim or not. The depth of the pool ranges from three feet to seven feet.

In the basement of the gym is located the bowling alleys equipped with pins and balls.

Also offered by the WRA for the Winthrop students are games of basketball, badminton, volleyball, softball, and other team and individual sports. WRA supplements its allotment from the student activity fund by such projects as saving blue horse coupons.

Journalists Win Places

High school writers from Lexington, Hemingway, Cherokee, and Greenwood won first places in the fourth period of competition in the Story-of-the-Month Contest sponsored by the Journalism Department.

High school journalists placing first in the four divisions were Dale Amick of Lexington, news division; Gwendolyn Oliver of Hemingway, editorial; Mack Spruiell of Cherokee, feature; and Skeeter Curry of Greenwood, sports.

Judge for the fourth period of competition was Dick Young, Jr., managing editor of the Charlotte (N.C.) News. The Story-of-the-Month Contest, which extends over a six-month period, is planned to stimulate good writing in high school newspapers in South Carolina.

TJ Explains Use Of Choice Ballot

To acquaint the freshman and transfers with the preferential and proportional representation ballots, an explanation of these methods of voting follows.

The preferential ballot is used in electing single officers. The voter has the opportunity to designate his first, second and third choices in this ballot.

The candidate is elected when he obtains a majority of the votes. The second and third choices are important, because if no candidate receives a majority on the first tabulation, in which the first choices are counted, the second choices are counted and added to the number of votes he has received in the second tabulation. In the third tabulation, the third choices are counted.

Proportional representation is used when there is a multiple office, such as Judicial Board to be filled. After each tabulation in this type of voting the names are rearranged according to the number of votes the candidate with the highest number of votes is automatically dropped from the list. A candidate is declared the winner of the office he is seeking when he receives the electoral quota.

DUCKETT SPEAKS TO AUP

Dr. Alvin Duckett of the Winthrop History Department will be guest speaker at the meeting of the American Association of University Professors February 24.

Dr. Duckett will present his Ph.D. thesis on John Forsythe. The speaker received his Doctorate degree from the University of North Carolina.

Winthrop Theatre Presents Annual Children's Production

A member of the Winthrop Theatre reads the story of "The Emperor's New Clothes" to the children in the cast of the forth coming Children's Theatre production. This play will be presented February 27-March 1.

The Winthrop Theatre will present its annual Children's Theatre Production, "The Emperor's New Clothes," February 27, 28 and March 1.

The comedy, adapted as a three act play from the Hans Christian Andersen tale, will be performed by children of the fourth through seventh grades, under the direction of Mr. William L. Long, head of the Winthrop Department of Dramatic Art.

The production is a class project for students in the Children's Theatre class.

The star, is set in a city in an imaginary part of the Orient, where a foolish Emperor spends his fortune for clothes of silk, gold, and jewels. Two adventurers, Zar and Zan, come from another country and plot to dupe the Emperor, and show up his dishonest right-hand man, who steals from the poverty-stricken royal weavers. Zar and Zan provide chaos when they go about their business in the city.

Fairy-tale settings, depicting the city streets with their quaint buildings, and the rich interiors of the palace, are being designed by Patricia Nappier. Lighting is by Mr. Donald R. Treat, Winthrop Theatre technical director.

The cast of characters includes Michael Whitfield and Mike Casey as Zar and Zan; Bill Long, Jr. and Rosemary Brannon as the Emperor and Empress; Richard Selo plays the part of Ham, the evil politician, and Alec Glover portrays the General, while Polly Sells acts as Tselin.

Sandy Rose plays Fah; Eleanor Grier, the old woman; Clare Cuthbert, a child.

Also in the play are Anna Wimberly, Lela Hayes, Laura Hayes, and Susan Prentiss as royal gong maidens; Churchill Pitts, Julia McDermott, Toney Allman, and Julian Rook play royal attendants.

As royal weavers and citizens are Jack Massey, Marilyn Brantley, Terry Sanders, Louise Dickson, Lillian Dickson, Marilyn Ridley, Mary Mauldin, Jane Dickson, Becky Burgess, Rose Ann Moore and Jean Evans.

Also acting as weavers and citizens are Pamela Floyd, Lynn Murrah, Jane Anderson, Debra Connelly, Mary Wilma Bell, Sally Brynn, Kathy Smith, Evelyn Stallings, Jimmie Blakely, Amelia Dunlap, Richard Williams, and Connor Henry.

JUDICIAL BOARD CHAIRMAN

Pat Anderson

"The primary function of Judicial Board is not merely to issue a penalty to a student who has broken a rule. Judicial Board should give to the individual, along with the necessary penalty involved, an understanding of the regulation in question. The board should impress upon her the responsibility that she, as an individual, must take to uphold the rules, and in so doing, the standards of Winthrop College."

Sandra Armstrong

"As a candidate for Judicial Board, I feel there is a need for the promotion of student attitude of respect rather than of fear toward Judicial Board, and a realization that Judicial Board is a democratic organization respecting the rights of the individual and considering the circumstances of each case presented. For the protection of the students, there should be clarification or revision of confining rules and the presentation of unwritten rules in the handbook."

"Also, there is a need for a system whereby there will be a common understanding and interpretation of all rules by the administration, residence counselors, S.G.A. officers, and the student body."

"I favor the recent recommendation of S.G.A. to revise the drinking rule and their investigation of honor systems. It is my hope that we can work toward an honor system at Winthrop on a trial basis."

Miriam Togneri

"My stand as chairman of Judicial Board would be to uphold the high standards of Winthrop and to interpret its rules for the greatest benefit of the students, considering and analyzing on the individual level. I believe in judicial government as a strong link between our and our democratic form government."

and be encouraged to accept her responsibility.

"One of the most important aspects of the student government is to promote an increased awareness of world affairs. A phase of S.G.A. which is sometimes overlooked, but is one of the least essential, is that of improving social standards."

"The most fundamental duty of the Student Government Association is to act as a mediator between the administration and the student body. If this obligation is to be properly fulfilled, Winthrop will grow through a more unified spirit."

Sara Pitts

"The orientation program for freshmen provided by the Student Government Association should be extended another day or two for the purpose of a clearer view of Winthrop's rules and regulations."

"The four of the campus would be more effective held later when new students have had a better chance to familiarize themselves with the campus. Also if SGA could provide through house counselors and sophomore advisors a program for the explanation and procedure of registration, freshmen would be better prepared to register."

"Faculty-student relationships could be improved by SGA through activities with students and faculty members participating."

WCA TREASURER

Anne Dickert

"In an organization with the Winthrop Association, I believe a scope and intensity of Winthrop's variety of interests and beliefs being represented in Cabinet is the best method of fulfilling every student's needs."

"I am interested in seeing WCA reach every girl on campus on the level which most nearly meets her needs. Through small discussion groups, leadership and follow-through on major addresses to assemblies."

and campus wide participation in WCA activities, these interests will be discovered and developed."

"There must be interest, understanding, and willingness to cooperate which prevails throughout all WCA activities and planning programs. I purpose to see these things carried out in WCA's programs in order to fulfill the spiritual need of every student on campus."

Betty Jean Prichard

"If I am entrusted with the office of treasurer of the Winthrop Christian Association for the coming year, I would like to see more opportunities for student discussion on subjects which meet their needs as individuals. In addition to more discussions of meaningful novels and dramas."

"I would like the opportunity to be made available for economic visit some of the large churches in Charlotte of which they will hear some of the prominent ministers of the area."

Marie Speman

"I advocate that more emphasis be placed on concern in regard to Tape Leaders so that they better represent the girls of their groups — what they want and think — to the WCA officers and cabinet. There should be better communication, too, from the WCA Cabinet to the girls in each Tape group."

"I think that this could be done through a more centralized workshop program for Tape Leaders in which they could become more acquainted with the overall program of WCA. This should aid them in explaining the various programs throughout the year and to know more about the material for programs and personal use and facilities available to them and to each girl."

"Prayer rooms have been a recent addition. I think that their purpose and value should be evaluated in terms of future use, possible re-location, and possible furnishing. I recommend that Sunday night dormitory meetings be considered and tested. Besides these specifics, I would support varied programs to appeal to the interest of the individual so that the Winthrop Christian Association can be a greater aid to each girl in developing a mature, workable faith."

WCA TREASURER

Betty King

"As one of the nominees for treasurer of your W.R.A., I want to say that if I am elected you may be sure that I will work with interest, enthusiasm, and persistence to serve you and your interests. May I take this opportunity to enlist your support in the election. You may be sure I will do my utmost for you."

"As a candidate for Treasurer of the Winthrop Recreation Association, I, Patty McClary, would

"We have in the W.R.A., an organization that we can well be proud of, but I feel that it is only through the continued effort of the W.R.A. leaders and the continued interest and support of the Winthrop girls that the high ideals which have already been so, can be met and furthered. I believe that these ideals can only be met when every girl is brought to realize that there is an active place for her in the W.R.A. program."

"In my opinion, the WCA should foster the growth and expression of each individual on campus. The programs of the organization should be set up to meet this need by a wide range of programs designed to provide an opportunity for self-expression."

"The constitution of a program consisting of discussion, concerning the various arts would be an excellent medium for students to exchange views."

"Because WCA is an organization composed of the entire student body, each individual as an integral part is urged to contribute suggestions to better its activities."

Betty Whiterspoon

"As a candidate for vice-president of the Winthrop Christian Association, I would like to see a plan worked out whereby Cabinet and denominational councils would not meet on the same day. I also feel that larger Tape groups with fewer Tape leaders would be more effective. This would enable more Tape leaders to attend the Cabinet meetings and the Students would have a closer tie with the planning of the programs of WCA."

"I think that the Tape leaders need a more adequate training period for their jobs. The discussion of the religious questions in a modern mood this year was good and I would like to see WCA sponsor more discussions of this type of modern plays, novels and movies."

"The Winthrop Recreation Association is an organization designed to meet the needs of every Winthrop girl. This can be done quite effectively through the Special Events program which functions provide a variety of coordinated recreational activities. As co-ordinator of this phase of W.R.A. work, I would strive to make the events under my supervision of such interest to the students that the year 1968-1969 might be written up as a milestone in participation."

Mistaken Knox

"The Winthrop Recreation Association is serving a splendid purpose on campus for the entire student body, and I consider it an honor to have been asked to run for the office of vice-president of this organization. I should endeavor to see that the spirit created this year continues. Every girl has enjoyed the dances and sports events that W.R.A. has sponsored; next year I'd like to see as much and more participation in all W.R.A. activities."
